Subject: Training Materials and Supplies

The North Carolina Society of Fire Rescue Instructors has been your provider of IFSTA Training Materials for over 40 years and look forward to servicing your needs for training materials for years to come. We have a commitment from IFSTA, Fire Protection Publications, that we will continue to be your North Carolina supplier of these materials.

Effective April 1, 2010, the Society will place responsibility of book sales and training material sales back under the responsibility of the Executive Director. This action was taken to better serve your needs and become more efficient in the services we provide.

When you purchase training materials from your Instructors Society, profits earned are used to provide services to our membership through awards and scholarships to our membership and their families. In addition, these funds are used to provide second to none training opportunities for all of North Carolina's emergency services as well as to work with other non-profit organizations in sponsorship of programs. If you are a member of the NCSFRI, you will receive a 5% discount on all orders, to help you and your department to be good stewards of your available funds as well.

We look forward to our continued relationship with you, and when you need training materials beginning April 1, 2010, please do so with us by contacting:
